The fact that the upward tendency prevailed in grains and provisions and also in se-surities more than likely helped in the same tendency in cotton, for sentiment apparently has not been so bullish for several days on account of the better weather. The rains over night were not expected, thus giving the bulls good chance for running a lot of the shorts in.

From Liverpool came nothing particularly new regarding the strike situation, although one private cable expressed the belief that settlement would be had soon. Before the session closed he had soon. Before the session closed the list of futures improved and finals were steady and from 5 to 18 points not were steady and from 5 to 18 points not to the good, whereas unchanged to 7 lower was expected. The further reduction in sterling rates probably helped to enhance the value of cotton already on the other side. Spots were marked off 5 points, midding to 20.07d, while sales were 5.500 bales, faccipts were 55,000 bales, including 45,700 American. At the opening prices in domestic markets were up 5 few points and there seemed to be little doing. The weather map showed that considerable had been received, some of it not needed, and this was the pretext for some buying for Wall street and professional interests, for the trade is very sensitive to upop damage.

There was demand from abroad also, and prices worked higher without much trouble. October opened at 53.66 and sold up to 34.16 before much check to the buying came.

Spot demand is rather limited, but there is an expansion in export movement. Sterling exchange, however, was again lower, which mittigates against buying by the exporters, so that the outlook for those who want to sell their actual is not quite so good at the moment. The domestic spinners are buying from hand to mouth and it remains to be seen how freely the foreigners will buy when the embargoes are lifted.

It developed late in the session that

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK July 9.—The cotton market showed renewed firmness early today on continued buying by houses with Liverpool connections, covering and scattered buying on the wet weather reported in the eastern belt. The opening was firm at an advance of the 26 points with October contracts selling up to 34.16 and January to 33.81 shortly after the call, or 50 to 60 points above last night's closing. The firmness of the opening stock market was some scattered Wall street selling and considerable resulting.

Beactions of about 40 points followed the publication of the favorable weekly report of the weather bureau, but after selling off to 33.67 for October, the market firmed up again on the eastern belt rains shown in the detailed weather reports. By midday October was selling at 34.66, with active months erally showing net gains of 50 to points. The early afternoon advance curried oes into new high ground for the day, th October selling at 34.22 and De-nber at 34.11, or about 67 points as
